Reception Trip Dulwich Upper Woods

Yesterday and today groups of children from Reception went on their first ever school trip to Dulwich Upper Woods . The children learned all about hibernation and which animals like to hibernate during winter. We would like to say a huge thank you to the parent volunteers who joined us on the trip.

CHISLEHURST CAVES

This week, Year 3 went to Chislehurst Caves. Successful and Caring Class' had an amazing time exploring the caves and learning about their long history. We discovered Roman flint mines, underground mushroom farms and the tunnels that became home for thousands of people during the Second World War. Many of us can hardly wait to go back - even if it was a little dark!

Year 5 Victorian Day

On Thursday, the children of Year 5 travelled back in time to the 1800's to take part in Victorian Day.

They were able to experience life as a child in a Victorian school, which was very strict and sample some the culinary delights with some tasty gruel. Yum!

In the afternoon, they channeled their inner Brunel to design and build bridges!

Pupil Principals

This week has been another exciting one. On Monday we learnt how to multiply fractions as well as find equivalent fractions. In English, we wrote about an English soldier who fought against Napoleon in the Battle of Waterloo. On Tuesday, we began learning about The Royal Courts of Justice in preparation for our visit. I have the role of witness number two. On Thursday we were practising our passing and shooting in netball.

This week has been so cool! In English we have been working on a backstory of a character from Wild Boy. On Tuesday, we found out our groups for the school trip to The Royal Courts of Justice next week where we will be recreating a trial. I am on the Prosecution. In Science, our topic is Earth and Space and this week we were given some statements and had to prove if they were true or false.

Building Digital Resilience

We all worry about keeping our children safe online. They grow up fast and the digital world changes even more quickly than they do, so getting the balance between giving them necessary online freedom and appropriate restrictions changes depending on age.

For toddlers

While some young children may have their own tablet (the most recent Ofcom survey suggests that a quarter of 3-4 year olds do), many others will be using a parent's phone or other device.

Activating safety features at every level is appropriate for this very young age group, starting with the safety settings on your broadband. It may be easiest to set up a separate profile for your child on shared devices, complete with apps and bookmarks that are age-appropriate, and a child-friendly search site such as Kiddle or Swiggle that will protect them from seeing anything inappropriate.

In a pinch, simply enable airplane mode on any device that you hand to your toddler so he or she can play safely offline, uncontactable by strangers.

For primary school children

Parental safety features are vital on devices for primary aged children, with apps such as Google Family Link and the iPhone privacy settings giving a large measure of control, backed up with broadband safety settings.

You should also disable in-app purchasing and geo-location on all apps.

Older primary school children are likely to request games that can be played socially, such as Roblox and Fortnite.

Check the PEGI rating (like a film rating for games) as well as the recommended age range. Add a parental PIN and lock-down the chat settings so they can only chat with known friends.

Make sure they know how to mute, block and report players if things do go wrong.
