Year 3

Forest School

For the last 12 weeks, Year 3 have been taking part in Forest School.

This week was their last session and to celebrate we made smores and cooked chocolate bananas. The general consensus was DELICIOUS!

A Visitor From The Past

On Wednesday, Year Two were visited by none other than Samuel Pepys. He travelled to the year 2021 from 1666 to tell the children all about the famous diary he kept between 1660 and 1669. He was able to tell them about his experiences during The Great Fire of London and why he had to bury his cheese in his garden. Year 2 asked some intelligent questions in their quest for historical knowledge.

On Wednesday, Year 6 went on an amazing trip to the Royal Courts of Justice. We left at 9am and made our way to the station where we got on the train. The train took us to London Bridge; on the train I drew a picture of a rose. Next, we got on a train to City Thameslink. At the Court, we performed a trial based on the book Holes. I was part of the jury and we got to decide if the defendant was guilty or not. My favourite part of the trip was when we got to perform.

This week, on Monday, we started writing newspaper reports based on the book Holes but it was a bit different as we typed them on computers. Tuesday was too wet for PE so we did some fun activities in the classroom. Thursday was good fun even if we did get a bit messy as we were learning how to print our Stiks. Friday was Christmas Jumper Day, my jumper had robins on it - so cool!

Thank you!

We asked and as usual, you answered!
From the bottom of our hearts, thank you so much for your generous donations towards FoodPlus Bromley.

This illustration of a pregnant Black woman, showing a Black foetus inside her belly, was created by Nigerian medical student and Illustrator Chidiebere Ibe.

The image has gone viral this week with many people commenting that they had never seen an image of a Black baby drawn in uterus. Drawing attention to a bias in the way images of bodies are represented in health care.

Ibe's work has been described as a “...beautiful illustration.”
